* State site numbers are missing either because one or more sites initially designated in the field were combined into a single site record, or because a state site form corresponding to the field number was not turned in by the Cedar Mesa Project, or because a corresponding state site form was not located in the files that were searched to produce this table. The files consulted were those at the Bureau of Land Management office in Monticello, UT, at the Edge of the Cedars Museum in Blanding, UT, and at the Utah Division of State History in Salt Lake City.

** Nelson numbers are those assigned by Nels C. Nelson during his survey of Grand Gulch in the 1920s. Nelson referred to Todie Canyon as "False Wetherill" Canyon, hence the NCN FW number. The Wetherill numbers are those assigned by Richard Wetherill in the 1890s.
